

Antony Gormley

Sir Antony Gormley, (born 1950), is a British sculptor. His works include the Angel of the North, a public sculpture in Gateshead in the North of England and Another Place on Crosby Beach near Liverpool, which you may have visited before. He is known for his bronze statues of human bodies.

Art movement:
Modern Art

Week 2 - Friday 15th January

Question of the week:
Why do you think the lifeguards on Crosby beach think Gormley's artwork is a hinderance?

Weekend art task:
Can you make a sculpture of yourself? You could use playdough, junk modelling, straws etc. You could visit Another Place on Crosby beach for inspiration.
