

Andy Warholl

Andy Warhol was an American artist, film director, and film producer who created a new type of art called Pop Art. His paintings were inspired by lots of things such as advertising and celebrity culture. He was extremely popular in the 1960s. His work spanned over a variety of media, including painting, silk-screening, photography, film and sculpture. His most famous piece was of a Campbell's tomato soup can.

Art movement:
Modern Art

Question of the week:

If you were to create a piece of art around an item of food, what would you choose? Why?

Week 5 - Friday 5th February

Weekend art task: Choose your four favourite colours and split your page into four. Can you create a Pop art style picture? You could draw four pictures in different colours or use hand prints like the examples given. You can use the app PopArt Style to create your piece.

